PSYC 530 - Instructional Assistant Practicum (2 Units)

Offered Summer 2018 M 9:00am - 12:50pm (SB-211)

Professor Janet Kottke

This course provides training in a variety of skills necessary to serve as an Instructional Student Assistant (ISA) supporting a college-level instructor in her class.

Once you complete this course you are eligible to apply for two types of paid ISA jobs:

I. Large Lecture Instructional Student Assistant (LLISA) for any lower or upper division courses you have already taken and passed with a good grade (A- or better). You will be paid 20 to 40 hours per quarter to help course instructors for a variety of course-related things, including grading short answer questions, short essay questions, and/or short reaction papers.

II. UGS SI (Undergraduate Studies Supplemental Instruction) discussion leader or an ASC (Adjunct Support Course) instructor for PSYC-100, PSYC-210, or PSYC-363; or an OSR (Office of Student Research) peer-lab facilitator for PSYC-311 or the PSYC-43X course.

Be an Instructional Student Assistant! The Psychology Department needs YOU!

Prerequisites: For undergraduates, Psychology major status and consent of the department; for graduate students, classified standing in Psychology M.S. or M.A.
